DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1 to 4, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamazaki (2003/0059990).

The Yamazaki reference teaches a method of growing a semiconductor layer on a substrate, note entire reference. On a substrate, an amorphous layer is created which can be silicon. The layer then is treated with a metal like nickel. The metal is a catalyst when the amorphous layer is crystallized. The structure is heated and treated with a laser to crystallize the amorphous silicon, note examples. The area where the metal getters are removed to lower impurities, note examples. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is gettering site. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable area, the top surface, in the Yamazaki reference to be removed in order to getter more of the metal lowering impurities.

Claims 5 to 7, and 10 to 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamazaki (2003/0059990).

The Yamazaki reference is relied on for the same reasons as stated, supra, and differs form the instant claims in the etching type, metal mount and laser type. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable etching means, metal left and laser type in the Yamazaki reference in order to ensure metal removal while not damaging the crystal and enhanced laser uniform scan.
